

PACT

Parents and Children
Against Trafficking/harm

A PILOT PROGRAM

Across ten of the most disadvantaged communities in Patna, Bhopal, Bhubaneswar, Varanasi children and families are trapped in difficult circumstances that could lead to child trafficking, child marriage, hazardous work or serious child harm.

Often parents or children are not aware of their vulnerability or how to protect themselves.

Aangan is mobilizing, supporting, and training parents

To find “invisible” children and spot early warning signs of risk or harm

These could be children who are out of school, isolated at home, living with violence and abuse, getting pulled out of school to get married, employed in dangerous work or hazardous work sites like garbage dumps, are unsupervised and expected to earn at an early age.

Support vulnerable families

Creating parent support groups, peer to peer counseling sessions and providing access towards government programs and services.

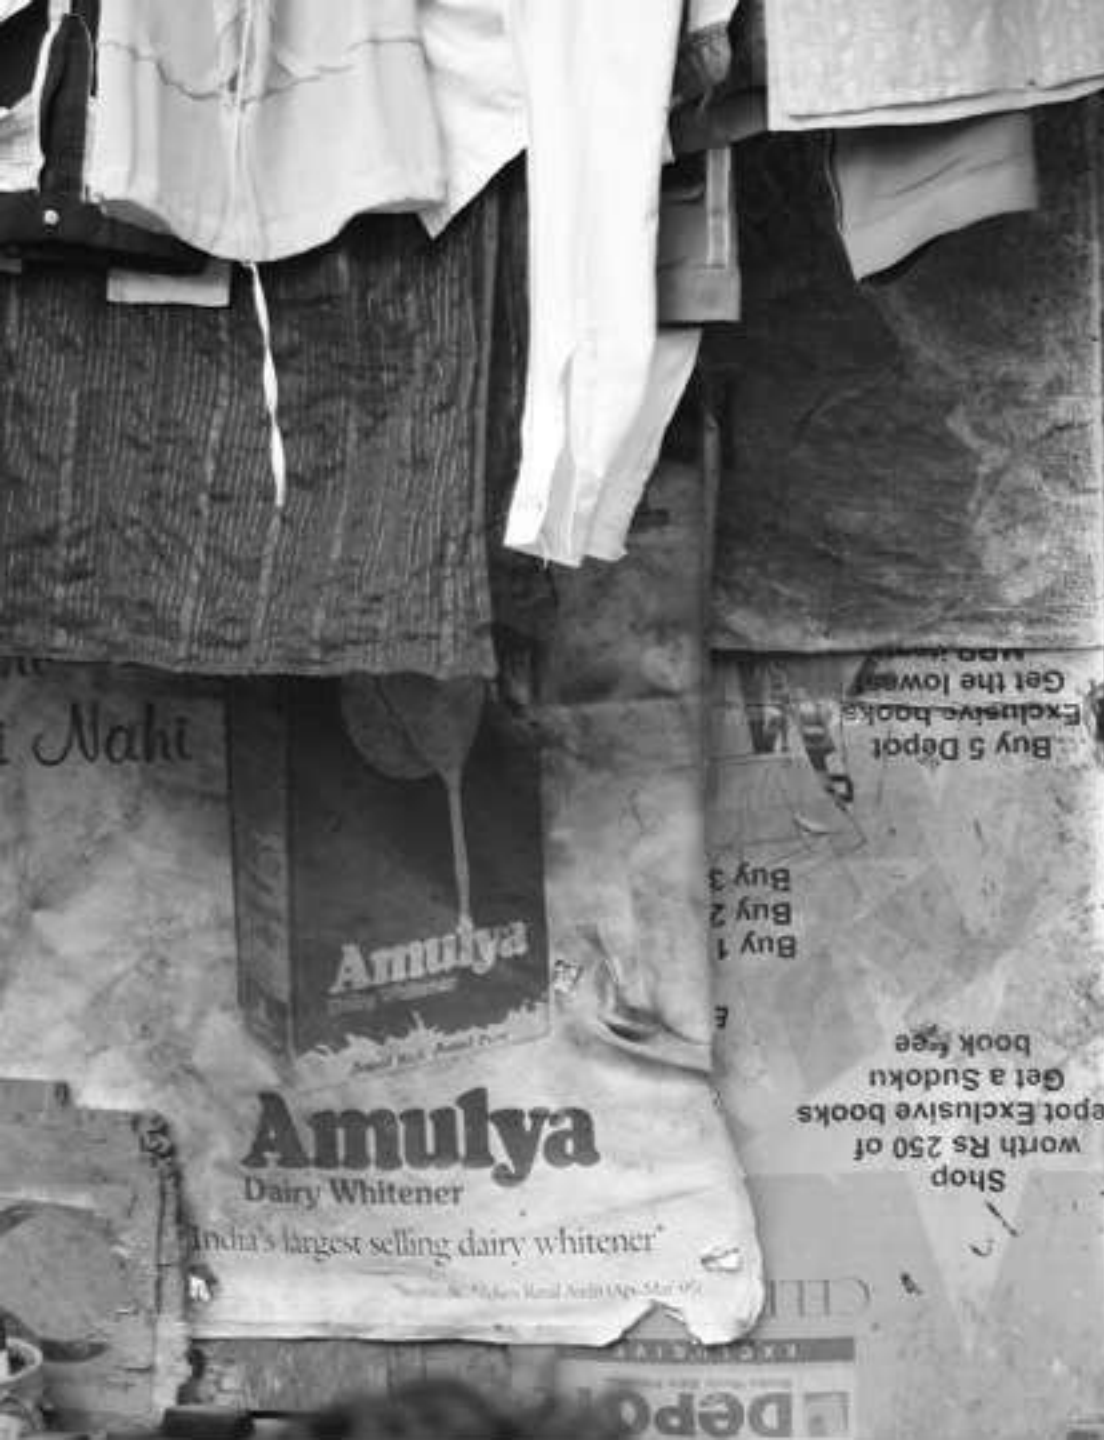

Activate state services and protection

Including police, anti trafficking units, education officers, ward officers, health workers etc.

Through PACT we strive to make sure that even in some of the poorest areas, communities are aware, alert and active

So they provide safe homes for their children to grow
